Notes

Team Formation:

You will form pseudo management consulting teams in the first week of class. Teams will be generally 3-4 people with one person acting as the Managing Partner and the others as partners. The Managing Partner for each team will determine how the team wishes to carry out the assignment including leadership, division of tasks, etc. It is expected that all team members will contribute productively to all team exercises in the course.

Individual Case Study Assignment (5 marks)

At the start of the course, students will be assigned a short case dealing with a problem/opportunity facing a professional services firm. Students will hand in a short brief on the case for evaluation of their ability to critical identify issues, causes, the criterion by which the solutions needs to be evaluated and their recommended solution and why.

Team Mini Case Presentations (15 marks)

Each team will be given an original mini case written by your professor with the condition that the team will only be assigned the mini case with a few hours' notice. The team will need to form their own lockdown and solve the case according to the format below. They will then present the case analysis in class to the professor and classmates. The mini cases shall be conducted over two weeks in the first half of the course. For each mini case, the job of each team is to:

- Determine the decision or problem statement;
- Conduct a proper situation analysis with the goal of determining the main strategic issues that must be addressed to answer the decision facing the PSF in each case. The external analysis may include identification of dominant economic characteristics; driving forces; key success factors; and competitive forces. The internal analysis may include identifying strengths and weaknesses and mapping them against opportunities and threats. You may also use relevant worksheets from BUAD 340 Strategic Management
- Every analysis must draw implications from the external and internal analysis relating to the case decision statement. By conducting your analysis in this manner, you will logically identify causes of the problem facing the PSF and these implications will lead you to identify the main strategic issues in the case.
- Once the causal analysis is complete, identify the main strategic management issues that must be resolved to address the decision statement and rank these using the main factors relating to the decision statement. These could be a form of SMUG which is defined as:
 - Seriousness - The relative impact in terms of people and/or dollars
 - Manageability - The relative ability to mitigate or reduce the hazard
 - Urgency - The measure of how imperative or critical it is to address the hazard
 - Growth - The rate at which the risk from the hazard will increase
 - Create a solution that addresses the strategic issues and resolves the problem statement.
- You will be marked on the quality of the presentation including presentation skills communication skills; class engagement skills

OBSA Business Reception Individual Assignment (10 marks)

As part of the section of the course entitled Dimensions of Client Service, each student is tasked with an assignment to find a professional that works in the field related to the student's career plan and personally contact that professional and ensure that they purchase a ticket to the OBSA business reception. Students will submit a written journal outlining their approach, name of the professional and the confirmation of their attendance.

Team Interview Exercise (10 marks)

As part of the section of the course entitled People Development in Professional Service Firms, teams of students will prepare for and conduct a mock interview for a professional job. Teams will be divided into interviewers and interviewees. Grades will be awarded for the interview process on basis to be set by the professor.

Career Plan (Part I 15 marks; Part II 15 marks; Final Career Plan 15 marks)

Students will prepare their own career plan comprising two sections along with an oral presentation after the first section and a final submitted report

NotesPowerPoint Presentations:

Your instructor has prepared a series of proprietary power points which shall serve as the basis for each weeks lecture and shall serve as learning tools for the following week's lessons.

The Okanagan School of Business promotes core skills across the curriculum. These skills include reading, written and oral communications, computers, small business, and academic standards of ethics, honesty and integrity.

STUDENT CONDUCT AND ACADEMIC HONESTY

What is the Disruption of Instructional Activities?

At Okanagan College (OC), disruption of instructional activities includes student “conduct which interferes with examinations, lectures, seminars, tutorials, group meetings, other related activities, and with students using the study facilities of OC”, as well as conduct that leads to property damage, assault, discrimination, harassment and fraud. Penalties for disruption of instructional activities include a range of sanctions from a warning and/or a failing grade on an assignment, examination or course to suspension from OC.

What is Cheating?

“Cheating includes but is not limited to dishonest or attempted dishonest conduct during tests or examinations in which the use is made of books, notes, diagrams or other aids excluding those authorized by the examiner. It includes communicating with others for the purpose of obtaining information, copying from the work of others and purposely exposing or conveying information to other students who are taking the test or examination.”

Students must submit independently written work. Students may not write joint or collaborative assignments with other students unless the instructor approves it in advance as a group/team project. Students who share their work with other students are equally involved in cheating.

What is Plagiarism?

Plagiarism is defined as “the presentation of another person’s work or ideas without proper or complete acknowledgement.” It is the serious academic offence of reproducing someone else’s work, including words, ideas and media, without permission for course credit towards a certificate, diploma, degree and/or professional designation. The defining characteristic is that the work is not yours.

“Intentional plagiarism is the deliberate presentation of another’s work or ideas as one’s own.” Intentional plagiarism can be a copy of material from a journal article, a book chapter, data from the Internet, another student, work submitted for credit in another course or from other sources.

“Unintentional plagiarism is the inadvertent presentation of another’s work or ideas without proper acknowledgement because of poor or inadequate practices. Unintentional plagiarism is a failure of scholarship; intentional plagiarism is an act of deceit.”

What are the Students’ Responsibilities to Avoid Plagiarism?

Students have a responsibility to read the OC Plagiarism Policy and Procedures outlined in the OC calendar, which is available in online format www.okanagan.bc.ca. Students must acknowledge the sources of information used on all their assignments. This usually involves putting the authors’ name and the year of publication in parentheses after the sentence in which you used the material, then at the end of your paper, writing out the complete references in a Reference section.

“Students are responsible for learning and applying the proper scholarly practices for acknowledging the work and ideas of others. Students who are unsure of what constitutes plagiarism should refer to the UBC publication “Plagiarism Avoided; Taking Responsibility for your Work”. This guide is available in OC bookstores and libraries.

Students are expected to understand research and writing techniques and documentation styles. The Okanagan School of Business requires the use of the APA or MLA style, but suggests that students cite references using the APA guidelines (see Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th edition (2009)). A copy of the APA manual is available in the reference section and also available for circulation from OC libraries. The library website has access to these two major citing styles.

What are the Penalties for Plagiarism and Cheating?

The Okanagan School of Business does not tolerate plagiarism or cheating. All professors actively check for plagiarism and cheating and the Okanagan School of Business subscribes to an electronic plagiarism detection service. All incidents of plagiarism or cheating are reported and result in a formal letter of reprimand outlining the nature of the infraction, the evidence and the penalty. The Dean of the Okanagan School of Business and the Registrar record and monitor all instances of plagiarism and cheating. Penalties for plagiarism and cheating reflect the seriousness and circumstances of the offence and the range of penalties includes suspension from OC.
