*ELECTIVE The elective course in this program is meant to enable students to further specialize in an area of interest within the program. To do so, students are encouraged to take one of the required second-year communications courses (CMNS 2XX) in the Winter semester of their first year. They can do so provided they have successfully completed three credits of CMNS 1XX in the Fall semester of the first year.

This pushes the elective course slot from the first-year into year two, where students have a wider range of courses to choose from. What we recommend is that students consider taking an additional second-year course in creative writing, communications, literature, or digital marketing. Students who wish to use a course from a different area should seek approval from the chair of the Department of English.
